For whom the task to trace the winding course
Of FREEDOM oozing from its crystal source.

Their ripen'd counsels into edicts shine,
And paint the Statesman through the whole design :
That each encircling State shou'd make its laws,
And raise its Heroes to support the cause ;
That SULLIVAN the Hampshire forces sway,
And THOMAS Massachusetts arms display ;
That from Rhode-Island GREEN should lead the Band,
While in Connecticut the joint command
Fell to a SPENCER's and a WORSTER's care ;
And those on Hudson to MONTGOMERY's share. S
In former days with martial courage fill'd,
To wield the sword was GATES divinely skill'd ;
Important was his lot among the troops,
To give assistance and confirm their hopes.
Three being ordain'd, the general orders held
To regulate the conduct of the field :
A LEE, on enterprising scenes intent,
His genius pure, European his descent,
And prudent WARD, with the bold PUTNAM join'd,
Who to their Country all their care confin'd.
Conspicuous then o'er all their CHIEF was plac'd,
Whose various actions proper virtues grac'd,
And WASHINGTON adorn'd with private ease,
With all his riches and domestic peace,
Now left Virginia 'midst the rising States,
And first inhabited, as fame relates,
To lead a num'rous train against the hosts,
And gain fair Freedom, and restrain their boasts.

Along the western shore on Boston's Bay,
From different quarters join'd the forces lay :
Their Leaders now parade them on the field,
And all attentive to their mandates yield.
A part were posted on the rising ground,
That on the north o'erlooks the country round ;
While on the east a confin'd strait oppos'd,
And British troops beyond were well dispos'd :
And some were plac'd along on Cambridge Plain,
To watch their motions from the neighb'ring main ;
When on the south the rest assum'd their posts,
To guard around the stations of the hosts.
The work went on with emulated zeal,
And various movements for the public weal ;
Trenches were made and batt'ries rais'd along,
And every part with guards encompass'd strong.
The adverse troops possess'd their ground secure,

While nought remain'd but the decisive hour,
Gage and his Leaders long their counsels weigh'd,
And order'd all his troops to be array'd.
Compos'd of Heroes bold, a chosen band,
Were join'd with Howe, who had the chief command,
To force their way and gain a passage o'er,
To take the field upon the neighb'ring shore,
The valiant Chief intent on great designs,
Then steer'd his course to gain the land that joins
A little east to Bunker's rising ground,
And with his party hail'd the martial sound.
The sign was given with yonder host to cope,
When courage mixed with their rising hope :
And now the time arriv'd to prove their right,
As dubious fate hung trembling on the fight.

In solemn pomp they all pursu'd their way
To gain the height where their opposers lay,
And nearly now succeeded in their aim,
When the grim battle mixed on the plain.
Disgorge'd balls in thicken'd tempests fly
And noise of cannon echoes thro' the sky.
The hills attentive—then repeat the sounds,
And the blood gushes from a thousand wounds.
The Britons thrice retreat and thrice return,
And in th' attack with martial fury burn :
But not their art with all their courage join'd ;
Not all their grandeur curiously refin'd ;
Not Charleston's flame that spiring high arose ;
Nor all the smoke that aided to oppose ;
Could shake the firmness of COLUMBIA's Band,
To yield submissive the adjacent land.

Heav'n pois'd the fight with equal balance long,
As 'twas with Greece in the Mæonian song.
Many the CHIEFS who left the realms of day,
And to the jaws of death resign'd a prey :
Among that number first a WARREN's lot,
WARREN the Hero, Statesman, Patriot ;
Among the Britons, *Pitt*earn shar'd his fate,
Who wish'd for conquest 'till it was too late.

We've heard how storms from diff'rent parts engage,
And o'er the Caspian airy conflicts wage,
At first, the clouds in gentle order roll,
At length, the thunders ring from pole to pole :
Clouds mix with clouds, and storms with storms conspire
And light'nings brandish in the darken'd air ;
Until their mutual force had all decay'd,
When calm serene around the Heav'ns array'd.

Thus persever'd the troops, and thus engag'd, } [End of Book I.
And thus the heat of battle was assuag'd : } To be continued.]

Mr. BICKERSTAFF is desired to insert what follows in his useful
ALMANACK for 1783, by doing which he will oblige his Friend
and Correspondent,

PUBLICOLA.

Extract from a Philadelphia News-Paper, of July last.

Mr. CLAYPOLE,

You will do a kindness to the Public, by publishing the following simple Cure for that unhappy wasting disorder the CONSUMPTION ; which has been communicated by an inhabitant of South-Carolina, where it has proved successful in some very dangerous cases ; and has lately administered to the relief of several persons in this State.

TAKE of the bark of the small wild cherry tree, and of the low land beach tree (not button-wood) equal quantities, of which make a strong decoction ; give a pint thereof per day, in several portions, or more if the stomach will bear it ; and to render it more palatable, it may be mixed with a little weak toddy or tea, as may be most agreeable to the patient : And although a few days use of it may occasion sensible alterations for the better in the afflicted person, yet this course of drinking must be persisted in for at least three months to render the cure effectual.

ONCE upon a time, a certain Rev. Dr. a man of great brawn and muscles, large, tall, termagant, happened to preach before King Charles II. being heated with his subject, and impatient of contradiction, even in the looks of an audience ; on a sudden he stripped up, and show'd the amaz'd congregation an huge, tremendous arm, with which he struck the cushion violently, and cry'd out, " And dare any body here deny this ? " The King shrunk back and mutter'd to himself, " No body in his senses, good Dr. within the reach of your tremendous arm ! "

To Mrs. B**** on her viewing a PRINTING-OFFICE.

BY PRINTING all the noblest arts
 Have been 'till now preserv'd with care ;
 This makes the Nymphs and Swains of parts
 Appear most charming and most fair :
 By this the names of Heroes great
 Who liv'd in happy days of yore,
 Are handed down to us in state,
 And shall be read forevermore :
 By this fair HELENA we know,
 And of her deeds and beauty hear,
 And this posterity shall show,
 How fair Mrs. B**** doth now appear.
